LEARNING PERFORMANCE CLINIC

The Learning Performance Clinic at Intown Psychological Associates provides a comprehensive program for children, adolescents, and young adults who are experiencing academic difficulties within the school setting. We strive to help students reach and perform at their highest potential, by identifying individual strengths and weaknesses. Whatever one's current level, we will design an individualized program that will allow them to advance at their own pace. With an emphasis on individualized learning, independence and self-reliance, we provide students the tools and techniques that motivate and propel them forward. Following each evaluation, a detailed report of evaluation results, which includes recommendations is prepared by the evaluation team. Our clinicians can also assist with educational planning.

Our Learning Performance Clinic is staffed by a team of professionals including licensed psychologists, licensed therapists, certified school psychologists and highly trained and specialized diagnosticians.

This package may include:
